Among the important matters likely to come before the United States Senate which met Monday, is the Georgia case, and the admission of Senators. There are four Senators elect from that State, and the question as to who are entitled to the two seats is as to who are entitled to the two seats is still before, the Judiciary Committee, of which Senator Trumbull is Chairman. No indication has been given of the action of the Committee, but it is thought that the four names will be reported back without recommendation. Dr. Miller, who was elected with Joshua Hill, is politically disquali-fied, his disabilities never having been re-moved. Messrs. Whiteley and Farrow are the other contestants, whose disabilities have been abrogated.

The proposed coalition of the Democrats and the Revenue Reformers, for the organization of the next House is treated with derision by Democratic members, and from what is apparent there is no possibility of the proposition being treated with respect by that party in Congress. Mesars. Eldridge, Van Trump, McNeely, and other Western Democrats, declare, in language more emphatic than polite, that they will not vote for a Republican Speaker, nor will they unite in Republican Speaker, nor will they unite in any manner with Republicans. They say that if any Republicans desire to vote for the Democratic candidate of the House they can do so, but that there will be no "swapping," nor combinations with the common enemy. Among the candidates for Speaker of the next House the name of Gen. Garfield

Legislature of North-Carolina.

Mr. Olds saw no reason for making distinctions between municipal and State elec-

Mr. Moore considered that this provision was in direct violation of the Constitution Mr. Warren thought it constitutional. Mr. Lehman said: With all due deference to the Senator from Beaufort, I venture to differ with him. He has said that the Con-stitution of the United States is a grant of power, while the Constitution of the State is a limitation of power. That distinction is valid. The Constitution of North Caro-lina has limited the qualifications of eleclina has limited the qualifications of elec-tors by requiring a residence of one year in the State and thirty days in the County. How are these municipalities created? Is it not by the power of the electors, through the Legislature? Now can the sovereign put greater powers into the hands of the subject than itself possesses? The State can only grant such privileges as are coextensive with its own. No county or town can possess greater power than the State itself possesses. This General Assembly can legislate on all subjects, except where it is restricted by the Constitution. That limits the power of the State, and, pari passe, it limits the power of municipalities. Municipal corporations are a part of the govern-ment of the State. That has been recently decided. A municipality is a part of the machinery of the State, and, in this respect, differs from a banking or railway corpora-tion, and the State has, therefore, a right to take away its powers. Nor can it have greater powers than the State has. Therefore, a municipality can only require a resi-dence of thirty days in the County and one year in the State.

Messrs, King, Robbins, of Rowan, and lones agreed to this view. The amendment was lost-ayes 11, nays

The bill was amended by making the time for regular municipal elections hereafter the first Mondap in May; and the Senate voted to reconsider the amendment changer from thirty days to ninety, and to postpor
